TUESDAY AFTERNOON, SEPTEMBER 2

THE INSULT TO THE PALCON. -The Republic of this morning states that the Falcon is a steamship owned by M. O. Roberts and others, and that although her commander is an officer of the Navy, and although she carries the United States Mail, she is strictly a merchant vessel, and no report has been made to the Navy Department of the firing by which she was published heretofore, is properly addressed to main contented with what it possesses."

her owner. The Republic is also informed that, We do not need Cuba—do not want here. upon the American consul's calling on the Captain General of Cuba, and complaining to him of the occurrence, the latter expressed his regret, and said it should not occur again; that it had now probably taken place in consequence of the Spanish vessel's having a new commander, who had recently come to Havana, and did not know the Falcon.

Had the commander of that vessel all the eyes that were aboard? Was the Falcon known to no one? It is not probable. But, admitting it to be so, were the cheers of his men, after he had boarded the Falcon, and their jeers and taunts, made in ignorance of the fact that she was a United States mail steamer? If the Captain General made such an apology he must have fibbed most amazingly, and the American Consul must have been as green as a cucumber to believe

But the Republic proceeds: "The firing shots ahead of the Falcon was not necessarily either an insult or an aggression. It is a mode fre quently resorted to by cruisers for the purpose of inquiring into the character and objects of a suspicious vessel. If it turns out that she is a lawful vessel, bound on a lawful voyage, an explanation is made, and the vessel is suffered to proceed on her voyage, otherwise she is de-

"The fact of the Falcon's having displayed her national colors," it is further said, "does not alter the case, as the showing of false colors is a stratagem generally resorted to for the purpose of avoiding capture."

The Republic concludes by saying, "We cannot doubt that the Spanish authorities will give the most satisfactory explanations of this transaction." We trust so. It will be better that such causes of misunderstanding as may possibly arise shall not be complicated. We prefer plain, straightforward issues; and if our people cannot sustain themselves upon these, let them suffer as wrong-doers.

We assume the ground that the people of Cubs are oppressed; that upon their making the effort to be free they are entitled to the sympathy and aid of their fellow men of every nation; that upon the Spanish Government's capturing either the people of the Island or their aiders, in arms, it has the right, under the laws and usages of nations, to punish the revolutionists; but if such punishment should conflict in nature or degree with the prevailing sentiments of the civilized world, then the offended laws of humanity should justly call down upon that government the wrath of an outraged world.

That the people of Cubs had made a clear unequivocal effort to revolt, as decided as their watchful and tyrannic rulers would give them opportunity to manifest, we think is clear to every one who has been willing to learn the history of the times; and that the armed men who hurried to their shores were convinced of this, and went to their relief, and not for purposes of plunder and piracy, but in the spirit in which Lafavette, Kosciusko, Steuben, &c. came to this country, is surely well known. Overcome by vastly superior numbers, a portion at least of these men have fallen into the hands of the Spanish authorities, and been most summarily and inhumanly slaughtered.

The original right of individual men to aid this great enterprise. the people of Cuba to arise and put down the minions of a foreign government still exists. The blood of the slaughtered appeals to humanity in language most imperative for the overthrow of the tyrants. While we desire most heartily that this foul wrong may not excite the friends of Cuban liberty to deeds of like cruelty, we trust in heaven that remembrance of it may energize every arm that strikes for liberty, until Spanish rule and Spanish cruelty may forever pass from the beautiful isle of the Antilles; until the banner of republican freedom shall float triumphantly over the home of every one who aspires to be what God has made him, a free and independent man.

THE LATE CUBAN NEWS .- The despatches of September 1, from Savannah, have the appearance of truthfulness, but we receive with caution all first accounts. We hope they are correct. Let not defeat or success, however, influence our convictions of right and justice. Cubs will be liberated, even though every American now upon her shores should be slaughtered. Yet our hearts will ever leap for joy at tidings of their safety and success.

To CORRESPONDENTS .- We have upon our table several original articles, to which we shall give place at the earliest practicable moment.

SENATOR DOUGLAS .- Middlebury College, at its late commencement, conferred the degree of L.L. D. on Hon. Stephen A. Douglas, of Illinois. It was in Middlebury that Mr. Douglas served his apprenticeship as a cabinet-makera fact of which he was speaking jocosely the other day, when a gentleman present replied: "The trade may serve your convenience yetfor no man at present seems more likely to have cabinet-making to do than your honor!"

"Topping OFF." - The completion of the walls of Miss Dermott's fine new edifice, at the corner of Seventh street and the Avenue, was at noon to-day celebrated by the mechanics and laborers, on the top row of joists. They were supplied with an abundance of good eatables and lemonade, but none of the ardent. As a general remark, founded on experience, we ald suggest that such frolics always prove ble when this element is omitted. The negroes, on the present, as on all like occasions, enjoyed the largest liberty, and walked the walls, declaiming to the amazed crowd bein language well vociferated but unintelli-

A New York steamboat flies a flag inscribed follows: "Cuba must and shall be free!"

AMERICAN PLANTING IN CURA.—The Baltimore Clupper of this morning comments upon the fact stated, that American citizens own large plantations and numerous slaves on the island, and remarks: "Should they be deprived of either or both by the act of the Spanish governor, it might become the duty of our Government to demand indemnity from Spain; and, in case of refusal, to take possession of the in case of refusal, to take possession of the island. Sooner or later it must come into our possession, not by 'manifest destiny,' but upon the principles which have governed mankind from the creation of the world. With nations brought to and spoken by a Spanish ship of as with individuals, enough means a little more; war; the report of this officer, which has been and whilst more can be had no nation will re-

> We do not need Cuba-do not want her. she can live as an independent Republic we shall be all the better pleased. If Spain were to grant her independence on condition that she should not come into our Confederation, and her people were to consent to this, we should be just as well pleased. A treaty of amity and reciprocity, such as neighbors should entertain, would answer just as well. We are sure great wrong is done by denouncing the American people as mercenary, and especially by a portion of the American press. In truth, we think he who declares that cupidity has taken the place of the love of liberty in the bosoms of our countrymen is guilty of a slander so vile, that he should be turned away from the ballot-box and made to kneel down before the "eternal idol" of the Spanish people. Yet the assertion is substantially made by a number of presses claiming to ossess all that remains of respect for law and > CRIMINAL COURT .- The Day Case .- Mr. Mor gan read to the Court, this morning, the affida vits filed by the defence in the case of Day, and the reasons for a new trial.

Mr. Bradley moved that Mr. Henshaw be xamined in relation to what he heard in the jury room, when he went there at various times to ascertain whether they had agreed or not. Mr. Henshaw was accordingly sworn. Before

We understand that the SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY received yesterday telegraphic despatches from the Collector at New Orleans, staing that 2,000 men were waiting there ready to embark for Cuba. Without being apprised of the nature of the reply vouchsafed to the Collector in these premises, we have reason to believe that he was duly informed, that if the said 2,000 men should debark under the circumstances, certain officers of the United States would be held responsible. We are inclined to believe that it would not be amiss to test the truth of Mr. Rhett's assertion in the Senate of the United States, that it is impossible in this country to enforce any law in a neighborhood where any portion of the people were opposed to its execution.—Republic of this morning.

We never read from Mr. Conwin's pen a par graph more like his own than the above. Would it not be well to hold certain high officers responsible if their subalterns are found wanting in the nerve or ability to execute the legal prescriptions? Or does Mr. Conwin shrink from responsibility here, as in the case of the panaces with which he was going to cure off or kill off the Treasury Department's sick list?

The American Patent for Phillips's celebrated Fire Annihilator," it is said, has been purchased by an association of eminent capitalists and business men of the United States. Honorable Elisha Whittlesey, First Comptroller of the United States Treasury, we understand, has been appointed President of the company. Over a million of dollars have been invested in

We have received from Mr. Joseph Shillington, Odeon Building, the September number of Harper's New Monthly Magazine. It abounds in useful and entertaining matter. Among its best articles are the continuation of Abbot's 'Napoleon Bonaparte," with six illustrations: "The Treason of Benedict Arnold," by Lossing, with sixteen illustrations; "Maurice Tiernay and "My Novel," continued, and the "House hold of Sir Thomas More." The "Monthly record of current events" is alone worth the price of the number.

Joseph R. Thompson & Co., Merchant Tailors, of this city, not excelled, nor to be excelled, in any city of the Union, for their finely finished, elegant and well-fitting garments have temporarily removed, we perceive, from their old stand, next door to the main entranc of the National Hotel, to Towers's Building, corner of Sixth street and Louisiana avenue, where their old customers and the fashionable public, in the male line, will find " Joe TROMPsos" on hand

Mr. RITCHIE.-The Charlestown (Kanawha county) Western Virginian, of the 26th, says: We call attention to the able, and we think conclusive, argument of a correspondent on the eligibility of Mr. Ritchie to the office of Governor. Should our conclusion be correct, and the gallant old veteran be induced to take the field, the result would scarcely be considered doubtful."

[Communicated.] SOME PUMPKINS .- G. M. G. of Florida, and T. M., of Washington, in a recent visit to a favorite fishing ground, near this city, hooked one hundred and forty-seven perch, white and salt water, seventy-three rock, and eighty-six catfish, besides other smaller fry. The lovers of the noble science of angling, and ama-teurs particularly, in the District, may learn that some attention is paid to fishing as a manly sport, as well as to other obligations that be-

The Fire Department.

To the Editors of the American Telegraph GENTLEMEN: I see that the Mayor recom mends a reorganization of the Fire Department. Now, sirs, let the Mayor and Council peruse the constitutions of the different fire compar of this city, and they will find them as good as any society in existence. They only want the corporation to make such appropriations as would keep their houses and apparatus in good repair, so that men could take pride in them. Let Council look to this, and I think their own good sense will tell that there is some truth in it. W. D. C.

The Presidency, and so the To the Editors of the American Tilgraph.

Gentlemen: As President Fillmers has at last arrived at his post of duty, and it being quite uncertain that he will remain at that post of duty a week longer, inasmuch as he may socept the invitation of the committee from Boscopt the invitation of the committee from Boscopt n, now here, imploring him to go to the "Literary Emporium," and be a guest at the great railway celebration soon to come off there, would it not be well, while yet we have his excellency at the seat of Government to take a would it not be well, while yet we have his excellency at the seat of Government, to take a look at the political horoscope, and obtain something like a bird's-eye view of the object Mr. Fillmore cherished next his heart in making his recent stampedes into different parts of the country, and his chances for the Presidency in the election of 1852, as well as the chances of some other aspirants for that exalted position? If Mr. Fillmore were the nominee for the Presidency of a National convention of Whigs, how many States could he carry? Possibly two—Vermont and Tennessee. He would most likely fail to get Vermont, for that State is almost entirely, if not quite, controlled by the likely fail to get Vermont, for that State is almost entirely, if not quite, controlled by the Abolitionists; and, as for Tennessee, he could only carry it by a vehement struggle. These two States, therefore, are by no means certain for him. What other Whig State is there that can be set down as likely to go for him? Look at the old Whig States of North Carolina, Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Massachusetts and Ohio—every one of them liaving a Democratic Governor, and most of them Democratic Legislatures! Not one of these States could be get.

How many States could DANIEL WEBSTER get, were he to be the nominee for President of a National Whig Convention, or of a large party that might prefer to run him by subscription? Not one—no, not one solitary State.

And why is this? Why will not good old Whig States stand by and support a Whig Administration? Why have all the old Whig States except one gone Democratic since the inaugura-tion of the late President Taylor? The reason is clear to the comprehension of every man of common sense. It is because the strong men of the Whig party, everywhere, have lost con-fidence in the present, as they had lost it in the late, Administration. They see that the men who have got into power are working for themwho have got into power are working for them-selves, their kith and kin, and their particular personal friends, and are pursuing a course to sacrifice the Whig party. They saw the Gal-phin operation carried out under the Taylor Ad-ministration, whereby a member of the Cabinet got from the National Treasury a fortune of about $120,000 for his own use; and they have seen the Gardiner operation carried out under the Fillmore Administration, whereby a mem-ber of the Cabinet has got from the National Treasury a fortune of about $120,000 for his own use; and seeing these things, and others, such as the allowance of the De La Francia Claim, the Chickasaw Claim, the Barron Pension Claim, the Mears Claim, the Hargous Claim, the Leggett Claim, &c., &c., they, the rank and file of the Whig party, those who have fought the battles of their party and gained such viotories as have been achieved, came to the conclusion that the men they had exalted to power were unworthy of the trusts conferred upon them, and ought to go down. Hence the Democratic triumphs in all the State elections! The writer of this has had opportunities of interchanging sentiments with leading Whigs, members of Congress and others, who have come to this city during the past two and a half years, from all the States of the Union. hair years, from all the States of the Union. He has a personal acquaintance with nearly one hundred Whig editors, in the different parts of the Union, with many of whom he occasionally corresponds, and he therefore ought to know something of the sentiments of the Whig party toward the present Administration. He it was who, some two or three months before the death of General Taylor, proclaimed to the public, through the New York Express, under the signature of "A. B. C.," the fact that there were not five Whig members of Congress who desired the retention in office of the then exist-ing Cabinet, and challenged anybody to gainsay he declaration. It was not gainsayed, for it was the truth and could not be. Mr. President Fillmore virtually acknowledged its truth when he caused the entire Galphin Cabinet to retire

That writer now declares as confidently as he made the declaration respecting the unpopularity of the late Galphins, that there is no more chance for Millard Fillmore, or any memyear, than there is for the election of John Tyer, who once occupied the place now held by Mr. Fillmore, and by a similar act of Provilence, and who, like Mr. Fillmore, no doubt, dreamed that the people would trample under foot all party lines, and elect him President by omething akin to spontaneous combustion.

Henry Clay ought to be the next President of the United States. The Whig party and the highminded Democrats of the country, who dare be great and independent, owe it to that greatest of all living statesmen, to take him up in preference to all other men, and, by acclaim, make him President of the United States. But will this be done? High-souled, lofty, and patriotic Democrats, who love their country, would sooner, far sooner, take such a noble step, than the exalted leaders of the Whig party, who are indebted to the courage, integrity, and untiring exertions of Henry Clay for the high places hey now hold.

As matters stand, either WINFIELD SCOTT or STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS must be the next Presilent of the United States. Judge Douglas seems to be the only Democrat who can begin to beat General Scott, and even be will find it an uphill business to beat the great Captain, no matter how well united all his Democratic forces

Judge Douglas is the only Democrat up whom the Democratic party can cordially unite, for he is the friend of each of the old stagers, such as Messrs. Cass, Woodbury, Buchanan, Houston, Butler, Dallas, Marcy and Dickinson, and if nominated, will get the hearty support of them all; whereas if either one of the aforesaid old stagers were to get the nomination, jealousies, heart-burnings and probably the defeat of the ticket would follow. Judge Douglas, if elected, will stand by his friends. He is a man of enlarged and keep gacity, and at the same time is not afraid to avow his principles. He boldly proclaiduring the last session of Congress, to se during the last session of Congress, to several officers of the Government, that an Administration which neglected its friends and undertoo to conciliate its enemies, could not stand, ought o go down, and would go down.

Gen. Scott, too, if elected, will stand by his riends, and not run a wild-goose chase after his If elected, he will enemies to conciliate them. If elected, make a President as will be a President !

There is a giving-out in certain quarters, that the Southern Whigs will not be bound by the nomination of the National Whig Conven-tion, unless the Northern Whigs will first pledge themselves to stand by and sustain all of the Com-promise measures. It will be time enough for either Southern or Northern Whigs to ask for pledges after the convention shall have assem-bled. If, then, either wing of the party cannot get the pledge it exacts, and secedes, and runs a candidate of its own, that candidate, whoever he may be, will get no votes. Nor will the seceders be able to carry the election into the
